Render Unto Caesar

Fr. Frederick Edlefsen

Today's Gospel recounts one of Jesus' most famous lines: "Render unto Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God." As Providence would have it, this Gospel is proclaimed two weeks before America's midterm elections. In electoral campaigns, anything goes when it comes to what people say. However, we Catholics have a blessed Tradition: two millennia of intelligent thought.

"Render unto Caesar..." is a response to a baited question from Pharisees and Herodians: "Is it lawful to pay the census tax to Caesar or not?" It was a trap, not a genuine interest in Jesus' policy position. Jesus either opposes Caesar or opposes the Pharisees – which in either case meant death. But his brilliant response would echo through history, contributing to western civilization's great tradition: there is a distinction between the purposes of Church and State. Yet, both are essential players in God's Providence. Even the Good Samaritan leaves two "denarii" (Luke 10:35) – a sovereign Roman currency with Caesar's head on it – to love his neighbor by covering an innkeeper's costs.

St. Paul tells us to pray for civil authorities: "First of all, I ask that supplications, prayers, petitions, and thanksgivings be offered for everyone, for kings and for all in authority, that we may lead a quiet and tranquil life in all devotion and dignity" (1 Timothy 2:1-2). In other words, governments have a vocation to support people's right to pray, prosper, civilize, create culture, love one another, and be "fruitful and multiply" in peace and security. The Church's mission to spread the Gospel relies heavily on Caesar – whether Caesar intends it or not. After all, Roman roads, built with public funds, were useful for evangelization, commerce, and other civilized purposes. Church and State are not often – but perhaps occasionally – happy collaborators. But Providence weaves through a fallen world. There's a mysterious dynamic between Church and State in all times and seasons. "There is a time for every purpose under heaven" (Ecclesiastes 3:1). Otto von Bismark called politics the "art of the possible." Catholic Social Teaching defines what politics ought to be. Though we must "render unto Caesar what belongs to Caesar," even Caesar has an account to render. We voters are active agents of Providence. When we vote and participate in society, we must also "render unto God what belongs to God."

MYSTERIES OF THE ROSARY

The repetition in the Rosary is meant to lead us into restful and contemplative prayer related to each Mystery. The gentle repetition of the words helps us to enter into the silence of our hearts, where Christ's spirit dwells.

Traditionally recited across different days of the week, the mysteries are divided into four main groups, reflecting the full narrative arc of Jesus's life, ministry, death, and resurrection.

The Joyful Mysteries (The Incarnation and early life of Jesus Christ)

Mondays and Saturdays

- The Annunciation: The Angel Gabriel announces to Mary that she will bear the Son of God.
- The Visitation: Mary visits her cousin Elizabeth, who is pregnant with John the Baptist.
- The Nativity: The birth of Jesus in Bethlehem.
- The Presentation: Mary and Joseph present the baby Jesus in the Temple.
- The Finding in the Temple: The young Jesus is found discussing scriptures with the teachers in Jerusalem.

The Luminous Mysteries (Jesus's public ministry and teachings)

Thursdays

- The Baptism in the Jordan: Jesus is baptized by John, and the Holy Spirit descends.
- The Wedding at Cana: Jesus performs his first public miracle, turning water into wine.
- The Proclamation of the Kingdom: Jesus calls all to repentance and preaches the Gospel.
- The Transfiguration: Jesus is revealed in glory on Mount Tabor.
- The Institution of the Eucharist: Jesus gives his body and blood at the Last Supper.

The Sorrowful Mysteries (The Passion and death of Jesus Christ)

Tuesdays and Fridays (and throughout Lent)

- The Agony in the Garden: Jesus prays in Gethsemane on the night before his death.
- The Scourging at the Pillar: Jesus is bound and whipped by Roman soldiers.
- The Crowning with Thorns: Soldiers place a crown of thorns on Jesus and mock him.
- The Carrying of the Cross: Jesus carries his cross to Calvary.
- The Crucifixion and Death: Jesus dies on the cross for the redemption of humanity.

The Glorious Mysteries (The triumph of Christ over death and the hope of eternal life)

Wednesdays and Sundays

- The Resurrection: Jesus rises from the dead on the third day.
- The Ascension: Jesus ascends into heaven 40 days after his Resurrection.
- The Descent of the Holy Spirit: The Holy Spirit comes upon Mary and the Apostles at Pentecost.

Entrega a César lo que es del César

Padre Frederick Edlefsen

El Evangelio de hoy relata una de las frases más famosas de Jesús: "Entrega al César lo que pertenece a César y a Dios lo que es de Dios". Es Providencial que este Evangelio se proclama dos semanas antes de las elecciones de "mitad de mandato" en los Estados Unidos. En las campañas electorales, todo vale cuando se trata de lo que la gente dice. Sin embargo, nosotros los católicos tenemos una Tradición bendita: dos milenios de razonamiento inteligente. "Entrega al César..." es una respuesta a una pregunta provocada por fariseos y herodianos: «¿Es lícito pagar el impuesto del censo a César o no?» Esta pregunta fue una trampa, no un interés genuino en saber la posición política de Jesús. Jesús o bien se opone a César o se opone a los fariseos, lo que en ambos casos significaba la muerte. Pero su brillante respuesta resonaría a lo largo de la historia, contribuyendo a la gran tradición de la civilización occidental: hay una distinción entre los propósitos de la Iglesia y el Estado. Sin embargo, ambas entidades son actores esenciales en la Providencia de Dios. Aun el Buen Samaritano, demostrando su amor al prójimo, deja pagados los gastos de un cuidador con dos "denarios" (Lucas 10:35) —la moneda romana que muestra la cabeza de César. San Pablo nos dice que recemos por las autoridades civiles: "Ante todo, pido que se hagan súplicas, oraciones, peticiones y acciones de gracias, por toda la humanidad, por los reyes y por todos los que tienen autoridad, para que podamos llevar una vida tranquila y sosegada, con toda piedad y respeto" (1 Timoteo 2:1-2). En otras palabras, los gobiernos tienen una vocación de apoyar el derecho de las personas a rezar, prosperar, educarse, crear cultura, amarse unos a otros y ser "fecundos y multiplicarse" en paz y seguridad. La misión de la Iglesia de difundir el Evangelio depende en gran medida de lo que haga el César o no. Al fin y al cabo, las calles romanas, construidas con fondos públicos, eran útiles para la evangelización, el comercio y otros fines civilizados. La Iglesia y el Estado no suelen ser —talvez ocasionalmente— los mejores colaboradores. Pero la Providencia se manifiesta aun en medio de un mundo caído. Existe una dinámica misteriosa entre la Iglesia y el Estado en todos los tiempos y estaciones. "Todo tiene su momento, y cada cosa su tiempo bajo el cielo" (Eclesiastes 3:1). Otto von Bismarck llamó a la política el "arte de lo posible". La Doctrina Social Católica define lo que debe ser la política. Aunque debemos "dar a César lo que le pertenece", el César tiene también que dar cuentas. Nosotros, los votantes, somos agentes activos de la Providencia. Cuando votamos y participamos en la sociedad, también debemos "dar a Dios lo que es de Dios".
